Keys to Adolescent Literacy Session H: Supporting Adolescents with Literacy Difficulties

Live Virtual Professional Development

Virtual-Live Format: The Keys trainer will use Zoom video conferencing to deliver this training in an interactive format using features such as breakout rooms and chat.

Grounded in more than 20 years of experience and the latest research on effective adolescent literacy instruction, Keys to Adolescent Literacy provides powerful professional learning designed to enhance student literacy achievement incorporating Joan Sedita's The Essentials of Adolescent Literacy book.

Discover research-based strategies to identify and support struggling adolescent readers and writers and provide effective intervention instruction.

This session is especially valuable for intervention educators and literacy leaders working with students in grades 5–12 who struggle with reading and writing. Content-area teachers who have a significant number of students with literacy challenges may also find the session highly relevant. Participants explore the underlying reasons some students experience literacy difficulties and gain a deeper understanding of how dyslexia and executive function deficits contribute to these challenges, as well as the additional hurdles faced by many older English learners. The session includes a review of research-based intervention practices and offers practical strategies for improving vocabulary, comprehension, decoding, fluency, and writing skills.

Session Topics Include:

- Overview of Adolescent Reading and Writing Difficulties
- Causes of Literacy Difficulty
- Supporting Struggling Learners in General Education
- Effective Interventions Instruction for Vocabulary
- Comprehension, Decoding, Fluency, and Writing
- Dyslexia
- Executive Functions
- English Learner Challenges

A copy of the Essentials of Adolescent Literacy training book is required for this session and is not included in the registration fee. The book can be purchased on the Keys to Literacy website.

Connecting This Session to Keys to Literacy's Comprehensive Professional Learning Suite: This session can stand alone as an introduction to intervention for students with reading and writing difficulties. It complements and pairs well with Session G “Advanced Word Study and Fluency”, and Session I “A Data-Driven Approach to Reading Intervention.”

Who Should Participate

This course is appropriate for classroom teachers in grades 5-12, special education and intervention educators, literacy coaches, and administrators—ensuring consistent literacy instruction across your district.
